

Figure 4.21: Water vapor is the most relevant greenhouse gas in the atmosphere, followed by carbon dioxide and the other trace gases ozone, methane, and nitric oxide. The anthropogenic contribution to this greenhouse system amounts to approximately $2.7 W / m^2$ or 2.1%.